WE are in the second stage of the national recovery program. Eight months ago the government was reorganizing and codifying industry to obtain a higher price level. Today, labor is striking in the mass industries for a larger share of those new high prices.

2 Whites and 3 Negroes Detained, Charges Not Yet Determined

EL DORADOAN HELD

Search for Prescott Murder Solution Extends to Hot Springs

PRESCOTT, Ark.—Raymond Whiteside, Prescott peddler, was held Tuesday for questioning in the slaying of Ed W. Cloud, meat market operator here.

Another development Tuesday was the arrest of a white man at El Dorado. Officers withheld his name, but were returning him here. Three negroes also are being held.

No murder charges have been filed against any of the suspects, pending further investigation, a deputy in the sheriff's office said Tuesday afternoon.

Police Chief Joe Wakelin and Chief of Detectives Arch Cooper of Hot Springs and Detective Don Chennault of Little Rock are assisting local officers in an effort to track down the slayer.

Sheriff Arthur Pittman has been unable to take an active part in the investigation. The sheriff is confined to his bed with measles.

The only tangible clue in the possession of officers is a shoe heel found at the scene of the assault.

Attacked at Garage
Mr. Cloud was attacked and robbed of approximately $50 by an assailant Saturday night as he stepped from his garage near the rear of his home. Mr. Cloud lost consciousness soon after the attack and made no statement. He died Sunday afternoon from a fractured skull and injuries about the face.

It was not determined what kind of weapon was used by the robber, but officers believe it was a hammer or an iron pipe.

Mr. Cloud was well known in Prescott, having been connected with the meat market business here a number of years. Funeral and burial services were held Monday afternoon.

American Couple Admit Spy Service

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Switz Make Admission to French Court

PARIS, France.—(AP)—Magistrate Andre Benon declared Tuesday that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, of East Orange, N. J., had disclosed that an international spy gang operated in New York and sent them as agents to France.

The magistrate said that Switz, a former salesman, fully revealed the gang's operation and the part he and his wife played in its work at a salary of $5,000 a month.

Their new information showed, police said, that the international spy plot was aimed against the United States, among other countries, and that Germany and Russia were to be the beneficiaries.

Americans Confess
PARIS, France.—(AP)—What court officials described as "a full confession of whatever part they played" in a widespread spy ring was made during a seven-hour grilling Monday night of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, Young Americans.

Their revelations brought announcement by Judge Benon, investigating magistrate, that arrests of 15 other persons in connection with the alleged plot would follow shortly.

Switz and his wife, natives of East Orange, N. J., and New York, faced each other at a secret hearing when M. Benon confronted them with testimony French police have been gathering for months.

The Americans emerged from the grilling fagged but smiling shortly before midnight and were taken back to the cells they have inhabited since late in December. They made the "statement" which they notified Benon Sunday they were willing to make.

Federal Money to Be Stopped Unless Arkansas Chips In

State Administrator Warns Towns, Cities, Counties

TO SHARE BURDEN

Part of Local Expense Must Be Borne by Community, Dyess Declares

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The prediction that the federal government would withdraw all aid from Arkansas unless the towns, cities and counties ceased to shun responsibility in caring for their needy residents, was made Tuesday by W. R. Dyess, state relief director, at a special conference of mayors, county judges and chamber of commerce officials here.

"We are throwing this problem right square back in your laps," Mr. Dyess said.

"Federal direct aid absolutely ends March 31, and when the new work division of the Emergency Relief Commission is inaugurated, we are going to expect you to share its burden."

Representatives at the meeting were from the 25 towns and cities that probably will be eligible for quotas under the work program.

At the conclusion of his address Dyess recommended that the mayors and judges name representatives to accompany him to Washington next Saturday to lay definite plans before National Relief Administrator Hopkins.

DENVER, Colo.—(AP)—Twelve convicts at the Colorado penitentiary are to risk their health in an effort to help medical science determine whether a new serum can make all normal persons safe from tuberculosis.

The serum was discovered by Dr. H. J. Corper and fellow workers at the national Jewish hospital here. Dr. Corper said today it has been used successfully in hundreds of tests made on animals in the last 15 years.

"It is now ready for trial on human beings, and we hope that it will be the means of immunizing all normal, healthy persons against tuberculosis," Dr. Corper said.

He said that the serum is in no sense a cure for the disease; it will not overcome tuberculosis after the disease has taken root. Its power, he hopes, will be similar to that of other vaccines.

Gov. E. C. Johnson has agreed to extend executive clemency to the convicts who are chosen for the test. He said he would not permit any prisoner who is listed as a habitual criminal or a hold-up or forger to be among the volunteers.

"There will be risk, of course, for the volunteer," Dr. Corper said. "The worst thing that can happen to them, we believe, is that they can contract a slow-acting case of tuberculosis. But if so, they will have a far greater chance to recover than thousands now suffering from tuberculosis because their cases will be discovered and properly treated at the earliest stage."

Dr. Corper declined to name the chemical contents of the serum. Working with him, he said, in evolving it in the last 15 years have been Dr. Morris Cohen and Arthur Damerow, a laboratory research student.

He said that so far, there have been no harmful effects suffered by the animals used in experimenting with the serum.

"We contemplate making the tests on a sufficiently broad scale to make our proof unbiased," Dr. Corper continued. "It will be at least six months and maybe a year before we will have any definite results."

J. Barlow Withdraws Ward 3; No Runoff Is Necessary March 27

The runoff city primary election scheduled for next Tuesday, March 27, was automatically dropped Tuesday when John D. Barlow withdrew from the aldermanic race in Ward Three.

Mr. Barlow as second high man had the right to meet Dr. F. D. Henry in the runoff, but withdrew when it appeared that an entire election machinery would have to be set up for this one contest.

His withdrawal leaves Dr. Henry as the democratic nominee, equivalent to election in the general vote next month.

Mr. Barlow handed notice of his withdrawal to the city central committee.

Trade Day to Be Held on April 12

Young Business Men's Association Dutch Lunch Attended by 100

About 100 men, members and guests of the Young Business Men's association, enjoyed a Dutch lunch in the New Capital dining room Monday night at 7:30. A varied and splendid program provided entertainment for the group. At the close a business session was held, at which time it was decided to hold the first Trade Day being sponsored by the association on Thursday, April 12.

A quartet composed of Sweeney Copland, Clifford Franks, George Hughes and W. C. Brown sang several comic numbers which were splendidly received.

Gurli Zinn gave a tap dance, accompanied by Ray Luck. He took several encores.

Chester Yerger, Jr., 12-year-old negro lad, sang popular songs, and gave several tap dances. He was accompanied at the piano by his mother, Naomi Yerger, who is a daughter-in-law of Henry Yerger, principal of Shover Street School, and a leader in negro educational circles in Arkansas.

W. S. Atkins and Steve Carigan made stirring talks to the audience, encouraging the club to successful endeavor in completing tasks to advance the best interests of this section. J. E. Barham told several jokes which were well received. Dr. Don Smith, president of the association, presided. Syd McMath is secretary. Roy Stephenson staged Monday night's event.

An old fiddler's contest is to be one of the features of Trade Day. For several days Roy Stephenson has been corresponding with people who may wish to enter this contest from several South Arkansas counties, and also in Bowie county, Texas.

Farmers will be urged to bring any articles they wish to sell to a free auction to be held throughout Trade Day. The services of an auctioneer have been secured free of charge for this first event, to get it started in Hope. The Hope Star has been asked to print and distribute 5,000 copies throughout this section of its issue containing advertising for Trade Day. An essay contest, in which $5.00 is to be given for best ideas in conducting a trade day, is not to close until April 15. The association expects to use these ideas for following Trade Days. First prize for this essay is $5. Second prize is $2.50.

Anti-Long Charge to Be Thrown Out

Louisiana Petition Against Senator Held to Be Scurrilous

WASHINGTON.—A Louisiana petition, attacking Senator Long of that state and seeking his ouster from the Senate were barred from consideration in a report filed Monday with the senate by its judiciary committee which terms the documents "scurrilous and defamatory."

These petitions, including one signed by former Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana, had been referred to the judiciary committee by the senate elections committee with a request for a ruling on whether they were receivable and privileged for publication.

The judiciary committee held that the petitions should not have been received and that they were not privileged for publication other than in a report filed with the senate.

Other petitions, seeking both ouster of Long and his colleague, John H. Overton, filed with the elections committee, have been declared by the group to contain charges not supported by facts sufficient to justify action on the part of the senate, and the judiciary committee held the same to be true of the petitions it reported on today.

Fruit Crops Are Unhurt in Freeze; Cold Snap Passes

Extra Heavy Crop of Buds Virtually Proof Against Damage

MERCURY HITS 62

Spring-Like Temperature Warms This Region Tuesday

Snow and sleet Saturday and Sunday which sent the mercury to 24 degrees caused little if any damage to the peach, pear, and other fruit crops of this section, George W. Ware, assistant director of the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment station, said Tuesday.

"Even though some buds were killed by the cold weather it would not materially effect the final yield, because of such a heavy crop of fruit buds this year, Mr. Ware concluded.

The low for Monday night was 32.5 degrees. At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning the mercury had climbed to 62 and was still rising.

Cold Wave Gone
LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The worst of Arkansas' "cold wave" appeared to have passed Monday as temperatures climbed in the central portion of the state and sunshine raised the thermometer reading to where topcoats could again be discarded.

Fruit and berry crops of Northwest Arkansas were said to have been aided by a temperature drop over the week end to 11 degrees, and a covering of snow left from Sunday's flurries. Orchardists of that section said crops were not advanced to the stage where the freeze would prove dangerous.

Damage at Fort Smith
However, in the more southern sections, reports of damage were varied. In the vicinity of Fort Smith, it was estimated that from 3 to 40 per cent of peaches and plums were killed by the freeze, and strawberries damaged. Berries appeared to have come through without serious damage.

The wave, which took on near blizzard proportions as it swept across Arkansas Sunday, left snow spotted over the state generally, with Northwest and Northeast Arkansas receiving the heaviest precipitation.

The central section received a heavy rain Saturday night, which shifted into sleet Sunday morning and then into snow flurries.

No trace was left Monday, however, as the temperature drifted upward.

Mena, Ark., Owes Its Name to Royalty of Holland

THE HAGUE, Holland.—(AP)—The Dowager Queen Emma, 75, mother of Queen Wilhelmina, died at the palace Tuesday.

Local interest attaches to Dutch royalty because of the naming of Mena, Ark., after the last two syllables of Queen Wilhelmina.

Dutch capitalists furnished much of the money that built the Kansas City Southern railroad; the Dutch queen once visited her namesake on a tour of the United States, and today the decayed ruins of a royal hotel stand on a mountain near Mena as a monument to her visit.

U. S. to Build Its Own Naval Planes

Government Will Experiment With Own Manufacture on 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Word that the administration plans to experiment with building its own naval aircraft to see if it can take some of the private profits out of war equipment reached congress Monday as conferees resolved differences between the senate and house over the half-billion dollar naval construction bill.

The conferees compromised on a plan providing that not less than 10 per cent of the more than 1,000 planes authorized in the bill shall be constructed in government plants.

It was reported that the Budget Bureau soon would send an estimate to congress of $4,000,000 for extending the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia to carry out the experiment. At present all army and navy planes are constructed in private plants; only experimental craft and parts have been produced in the few government airplane shops.

Arkansas Senator Backs Up President in Air-mail Controversy

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Democratic Leader Robinson, of Arkansas, told the senate Tuesday that he had evidence that "supports very strongly" the statements he made last Thursday that Pittsburgh Aviation Industries, Inc., was a strong political factor in Pennsylvania and that "the Mellons were prominent in its affairs."

Robinson said the minute book of the executive committee of the corporation, and letters written by Andrew W. Mellon, showed that the corporation was a political factor and boasted of its political power and influence.

The corporation has figured in air-mail hearings where it was alleged that the Mellons sought to influence the award of contracts to the corporation.

Dies Silver Bill Passes
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—In spite of administration indifference, the House Monday passed a silver remonetization farm relief bill by a majority that ran well over the two-thirds vote required by the procedure under which it was considered.

Voting 257 to 112, it sent to the senate the Dies bill directing that silver be accepted at a premium above the world price in exchange for agricultural commodities in which a surplus exists. The metal thus received would be used as backing for new issues of silver certificates.

The debate was punctuated by insistent repeated demands from republican regulars for a statement of the administration's position on the measure. But the nearest thing to a definite answer that they received was a statement by Representative Dies (D., Tex.), that Secretary Morgenthau had not opposed the bill in committee.

Administration Replies
However, a little earlier the administration by an adroit move had effectively headed off a vote on another silver measure, the Fiesinger bill directing the treasury to buy a billion and a half ounces of the white metal, in an effort to enhance its price.

Secretary Morgenthau called in reporters to announce that Professor James Harvey Rogers, one of the president's confidential monetary advisers, would leave soon for China to study the effect of an increased world silver price on oriental purchases in the United States.

This assurance that the administration had not definitely closed the door to further action to help the economic status of the silver producing states caused Speaker Rainey to confine the vote Monday to the Dies bill. The silver leaders credited the administration action, too, with decreasing the vote which they otherwise would have commanded.

The Dies bill was skillfully drafted to attract the support of two strong house factions—the inflationist bloc with its group from the silver states and the farm bloc. For that reason some quarters did not consider it an accurate test of silver sentiment in the house. They said, however, there was a majority for silver action.

Sell Surpluses for Silver
Under the bill, a board would be established to negotiate sales of agricultural surpluses to foreign buyers, and accept in exchange silver coin or bullion at a price to be fixed by the board, but not to be set higher than 25 per cent above the world price of silver.

A second limitation would fix the extent of the board's sales in one year at a volume at which the excess value of silver over the world price would not exceed $400,000,000. The silver received would be deposited in the treasury, with the latter authorized to issue silver certificates against it.

These would be used to compensate the producers of the commodities sold under the plan.

At the outset of the debate, Dies disclaimed any interest in the question from the point of view of the inflationist or the man from the silver states, and placed himself with the group who were behind the bill as a farm relief measure.

Tennessee Executive Repudiates Story Bonds Went to Campaign

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Governor Hill McAlister testified Tuesday he did not even know former Insurance Commissioner J. I. Reece who has given testimony connecting the chief executive with a political agreement to divert funds into an election campaign.

Reece, on trial on a charge of stealing $100,000 in bonds from the insurance department, had related that he was prevailed upon to take $22,000 from the department account and use it in behalf of McAlister's 1932 election campaign.

McAlister denied he was ever introduced to Reece, and said he fired him "as promptly as could after inauguration."

Senate Strikes at Politics in HOLC

Partisan Favoritism Would Be Waived in Home Loan Corporation

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—By one vote, the senate decreed Monday that politics should be taken out of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and then passed an administration bill to guarantee principal of the bonds issued by the corporation.

The amendment to bar politics in appointments to the corporation was adopted, 40 to 33. Then Democrats rallied their forces and after a heated debate attempted to reconsider the action. They finally lost, 35 to 34.

The bill, providing for a government guarantee of the principal as well as the interest of the $2,000,000,000 of bonds designed to refinance home mortgages, now goes to the house. It was passed without even a record vote.

While the galleries applauded, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, said the amendment was needed to block "a stinking mess of political corruption." Senator Neely, Democrat, West Virginia, called the amendment "the worst species of humbuggery."

Norris said he offered the amendment "at the request of a part of the Democratic administration who were afraid, because they feared Democratic politicians would take their political lives if they dared to let it be known where they stood."

Charging that the Home Loan Corporation was "a political machine, rotten to the core," Norris said "the man selected by Franklin D. Roosevelt to do this job is paying for adoption of this amendment." He apparently was referring to John H. Fahy, chairman of the corporation.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Professors Still Ride High in Capital
Garners Dodge Society and Save
Senators Set Office Hours
Skunk Killed at Capitol.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—All this talk about the professors fading out of the administration picture is just so much baloney.

The latest census of professors says there are about 50, as against only 35 a few months ago. That indicates the increase, but the total is much too low.

You really can't count the professors—there are too many of them. You stumble into them wherever you go. Every time a professor steps out of the New Deal (usually in disgust), there's another to take his place.

The yards about the professors losing their places in the sun started with resignation of Ray Moley as assistant secretary of state, but Moley still is a fair-haired boy to Roosevelt and you have heard of that. The next assistant secretary was another professor—Francis B. Sayre of Harvard.

When Prof. O. M. W. Sprague quit the Treasury (with a loud roar), Secretary Morgenthau hired a couple more professors—Dr. Roswell Magill of Columbia and Dr. Jacob Viner of Chicago university. And so it goes.

The professors are popular around here. They get invited around to all sorts of places. Funny thing is, most of them are young men, often handsome and fast on their feet.

The fellows here who look like the coming strip conception of a professor are some of the veteran government employees, especially the scientists.

The only sure way to tell a New Deal professor is by the gleam in his eye—and the gleam often dies.

Garners Dodge Society
One reason Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garner avoid the social racket here is that it gives them a pain in the neck.

An equally cogent reason is that they'd rather live within the vice presidential salary, which is $15,000 annually, but only $12,500 since the 15 per cent federal pay cut.

The vice presidential gets no allowance for entertainment, as the White House does, and no mileage.

Mrs. Garner, still Jack's secretary, looks lunch for herself and the staff in the vice presidential office suite. Something simple, usually, like bacon, eggs and coffee.

But that's for convenience rather than economy.

Senators Tighten Up
Brand new in Washington is the crop of "office hours" notices on senatorial doors. Dozens of senators now restrict the general run of visitors (meaning, chiefly, jobhunters) to certain hours of the day.

Some are liberal, designating 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. or 10 to 4. But Senator Taylor of Maryland, who started the fashion last session, when he found his nearby constituents crowding into town by bicycle or on foot, says you can see his secretaries only from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m.

His signs warns applicants to get recommendations from their ward leaders, the Democratic central committee, or other politicians. Tydings even has taken his name off the door.

Kills Skunk at Capitol
A skunk invaded the Capitol the other night. Following John Ashley, attracted by unmistakable indications, shot it on the portico of the House entrance. The aroma lingered for days.

Capitol cops have varied experiences. Policeman Guy Reeves was hummed for a quarter recently by a man seeking taxi fare. The "bum" was Secretary Morgenthau, who wanted to get to the Treasury.

The Methodist Building restaurant has become an oasis for surviving drys. There now are few other respectable eating places here where drinks are served.

The cabinet member who wears spats is Attorney General Homer Cummings. He is "Home on the Range."

Even the weather has gone Democratic," commented Senator Dave Deed of Pennsylvania, as he looked out from a Capitol window on a mean, nasty day.

The government hospital, St. Elizabeth's, now knows more about what's in a name. It removed $15 in nickels, dimes and quarters from the stomach of a patient named—Nickels.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Reaching the Child by Suggestion—Properly Used, It's Often More Effective Than Giving Orders

In this article, another in her series on modern Child Training, Olive Roberts Barton describes the benefits in reaching the young child through suggestion.

One of the mother's greatest allies in reaching a young child is suggestion.

So peculiar are the mind centers and so quickly suspicious of criticism or even direct telling, that they will receive impressions quite happily by suggestion that they would otherwise throw away at once.

Suppose her mother wants Mary to learn to tidy her room. She starts with resignation of Ray Moley as assistant secretary of state, but Moley still is a fair-haired boy to Roosevelt and you have heard of that.

One day she picks them up and personifies them. Quite casually she may say, "I am sure these friendly little fellows must think we haven't much left leaving them about to be worried and chewed by Peter. Any-way I think they get lonely away from their own family. Babies always like to be with their papas and mamas."

Mary may regard her for awhile and not say anything, or she may pretend even to notice at all.

"Orders" of Notice Fall
But the next time there is a good chance she will open the closet door and put them away herself. It may take several times, or even another approach altogether, but something is more likely to come of it than a straight order, because interest sets memory. When combined with suggestion it is almost unbeatable.

There is nothing wrong with a direct order. It is not necessary to think that no small child can stand a direct command. He should and there is no great need always to explain to him "why" either. Unqualified obedience is his necessary place in all child-parent relationships. But it often fails for a clear reason. With small children these reasons are many and varied. They forget, or they are deeply interested in something else, or their attention is off woolgathering. Sometimes when they are told to do too many things they become apathetic and careless from too much to remember, or just plain resentment.

Suggestion of a certain kind, however, is more harmful than good. This is particularly true of the child surrounded by adults with their peculiar tastes. Try to get child to eat food that nobody else will touch. Or try to get to wear a suit like the neighbors' boys. It may not be like it but if he thinks it similar it's out—for him. Or if he hears much about sickness, he may even begin to use that as an excuse not to do things. "I don't feel well," he begs off.

Children are great imitators. The power of suggestion combined with interest is at work here. The conduct of the family will reflect almost instantly in a child's manners, his speech, his tastes and his behavior. This is why environment plays such a part in life.

Time for "Suggestion"
Later, his judgment or personal preference may combat it to some extent, if he notices defects, or the opposite may happen. He may be developing unfortunate characteristics by outside contacts and throw off right home influence. We have another problem here.

However, suggestion in its active sense can be used nicely and happily. The time chosen is important. It usually fails if the child has set up a determined wall of refusal already. No use in turning diplomatic in the middle of a tantrum or a stubborn spell. And it won't do much good if he is deeply interested in something else at the time. It is part of a mother's equipment in something to be used with judgment. She will come in time to know.

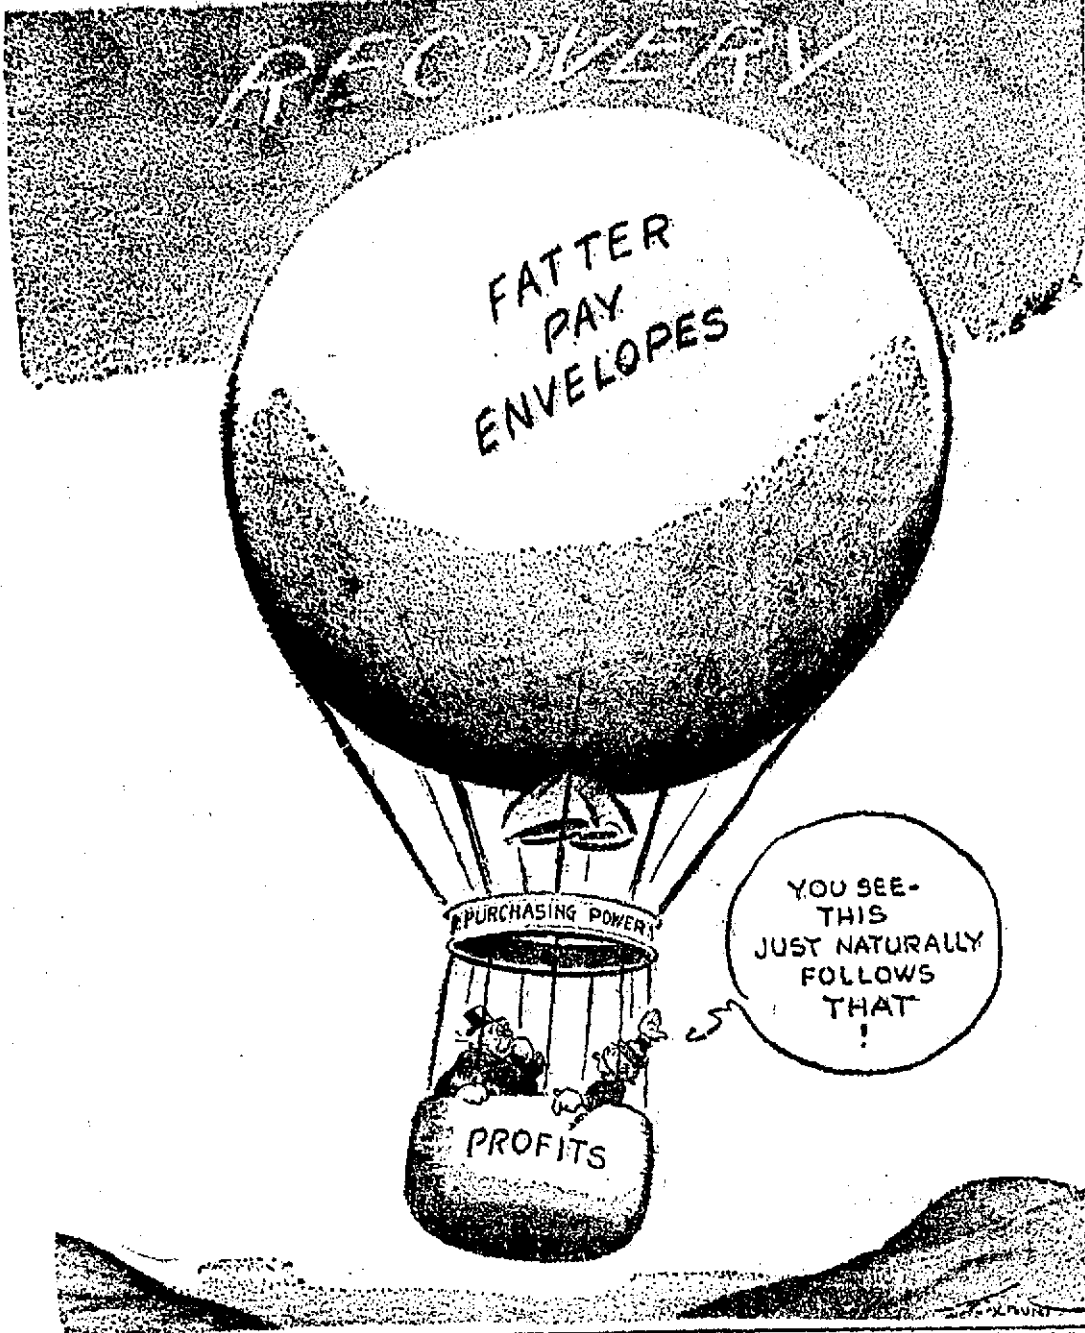

Care must be taken as the child grows so not to understate his growing "fact" sense. Suggestion cannot then be too obvious or have the flavor of "fooling."

Texas Raises Fund for Work Relief

4 Billions' Worth of Bonds Sold by Lone Star State

AUSTIN.—(AP)—Donald O'Neal & Co. of Dallas Saturday bought in Texas $4,000,000 worth of state unemployment relief bonds at par, accrued interest and a bonus of $11,225.

Texas had experienced serious difficulty in disposing of her bonds, proceeds to help feed and clothe the needy. An initial issue of $2,750,000 did not attract a single offer and bankers and insurance companies of the state absorbed the securities, after an intensive campaign, in order to keep the relief program moving.

A second issue of $2,750,000 did not bring a bid. A recent special session of the legislature raised the rate of interest and removed certain inhibitions, barring certain governmental agencies from investing surplus funds in them.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF
By Alicia Hart

Dryness Causes Neck Wrinkles
From a beauty standpoint, the neck is the tell-tale of age. A woman may have a complexion that looks about nineteen. And hair, figure and hands that appear just as youthful, but if her throat isn't correspondingly young, her age secret is bared.

The unfortunate part of it is that necks have a tendency to age more quickly than faces, and once they do, it takes longer to get them back to par. Therefore, let's use the good old ounce-of-prevention method.

Remember that dryness causes fine lines which eventually will turn into deep wrinkles. And a bad posture does much the same thing. You should carry your head high, chin in, with back of the neck in a straight line. If your neck gets tired and stiff, do a few simple daily exercises to make it supple and comfortable. For instance, holding the head erect and then leaning forward and letting it drop forward until chin touches neck.

Repeat several times and do it backwards, too—trying to touch the crown of your head to the space between shoulder blades.

Massage tissue cream into your throat every night before retiring. It prevents dryness and keeps the skin smooth and soft.

NEXT: Beautiful chins.

Revelation

We have seen Beauty when the day was young,
Where roses bloom, and watched her as she hung
Small silver lamps against a purple sky,
And heard her call in night winds drifting by.
And we have seen her on a city street,
With pity inexpressible and sweet,
Guide one, with gentle hands through motley crowds,
Whose sightless eyes have seen no
flame-touched clouds.
We see her smile from some child's tender face,
Or fearfully fling rainbows into space;
With scarlet lips she brushed the car-
dinal's wings;
Her presence lingers in calm, holy things.
With understanding heart and feet
unshod,
She walks the ways of men, to show them God.—Selected.

In resuming their activities, the Pro-School Study Group will meet at 3 o'clock, Wednesday at the home of General Chairman, Mrs. Jesse Brown, South Washington street. All members are urged to be present, and mothers of pre-school children are cordially invited.

Mrs. Sue S. Wilson of Little Rock is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Ross R. Gillespie and Mr. Gillespie.

Miss Geneva Jean Vaughn has hosted on Saturday evening to a group of her young friends at her home on North Hamilton street. A very pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was a tango and tap dance by Misses Vaughn and Lois Hanson. Out of town guests were present from Prescott, Shover Springs and other surrounding towns.

Mrs. E. Delaughter of Broughton was the week-end guest of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Haynes and Mr. Haynes.

Mrs. Fanny Garrett and Mrs. Lloyd Spencer attended the funeral of their relative, Ed W. Cloud, on Monday afternoon in Prescott. Mr. Cloud passed on Sunday afternoon from injuries received Saturday night from the hands of an unidentified robber.

With a group of her fifth grade young friends as guests, Miss Marietta Presley was hostess on Saturday evening at a most delightful dinner party at her home on North Walnut street. The pleasing color scheme of pink and green was stressed in the decorations, favors and menu. Games and contests were enjoyed with the prizes going to Misses Verna Mae Gunn and Jean Young. Covers were laid for Nancy Hill, Nancy Fay Williams, Jean Young, Marie Antoinette Williams, Martha White, Margaret Bush, Verna Mae Gunn, Jerry Smith, Sarah Ann Barham, Mary Wilson and Marietta Presley.

The Woodmen Circle will meet in the Woodmen hall Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. A good attendance is urged.

A most interesting meeting of the W. M. S. of the First Baptist church was held on Monday afternoon at the church with Circle No. 2 in charge.

Secret Meeting Monday
NEW YORK.—(AP)—With the terse statement that "progress is being made," directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce Monday night adjourned until Tuesday their secretive preparation of a reply to the American Federation of Labor's move for a general strike in the auto industry Wednesday. Adjournment followed a 12-hour conference session. The directors conferred for an hour with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery administrator. It was understood Johnson reiterated the government's proposal for a truce, involving:

1. Cessation of strike preparations.
2. A board of review, with NRA officials presumably as mediators, to hear grievances of unionists who have claimed they were discriminated against in favor of the industry's company unions.
3. A possible vote of workers in the industry to determine whether they desired the voice of the federation or the company unions.

Only Ford Absent
Johnson could not be reached for comment on his visit to the conference—who represented every major company except that of Henry Ford, who for years has remained without the fold of the national automobile chamber, playing a lone hand in this as well as other disputes of the past.

The conference was in secret. Newspapermen were barred from the floor of the chamber's offices where it was held.

The Federation of Labor, whose ultimatum of "recognition of the Auto Workers' Union as a general strike" followed several weeks of dispute, has estimated its membership in the automobile cities as around 60,000.

The presence of General Johnson in the city attested to the importance placed by the Roosevelt administration to avoiding the strike, which might affect some 250,000 employees.

Among the conferees were Alfred P. Sloan Jr., General Motors; E. L. Cord, Walter F. Chrysler, Alvan MacAuley of Packard and president of the chamber, and Roy D. Chapin of Hudson.

Would Avoid Spring Tie-up

As stated privately by an official of one of the larger companies involved, the main problem of the auto manufacturers is to avoid a strike during the coming few weeks—the period of intense spring production. The impasse thus far has been this: The employers have declared they would not be dictated to by the federation. Union leaders have declared the efforts of the employers to force upon workers the company union idea made the present condition untenable. If the federation strike proved fully effective, some 250,000 workers would be thrown out of work—the fear of which was a retard to its recovery program brought the administration forth with its offer of mediation.

Paschke and Blevins Band at High School

The Paschke-Blevins brothers string band will present a 40-minute musical program in the auditorium of Hope high school Wednesday morning, starting at 10 o'clock. The band has two 12-year-old fiddlers, Jack and Jill, whom are featured on the program. The music will consist of old-time and popular numbers. The program is sponsored by the Library association. The public is invited.

Weds Man Who Once Kidnaped Her

Abducted, Beaten and Robbed, So She Ups and Marries Him

LITTLE ROCK.—Within a few hours Monday after F. H. Voss, had obtained a divorce from her in Pulaski Chancery Court, Mrs. Myrtle Stine obtained a license to marry J. W. Bodine, who a month ago was arrested and held in jail at Conway for several days on charges of having kidnaped and robbed her.

Mrs. Stine, who gave her age as 33, told police on the night of February 15 that she had been visiting a woman friend in North Little Rock and late in the afternoon had started to drive to her home when a man whom she knew only as "Jim" asked to be allowed to ride over the bridge.

She said that when she stopped for the traffic light at Main and Market streets, two other men jumped on the running board and that one of them forced her to give up the wheel and proceeded to drive the car. She said he returned across the river and headed for Conway. On the way she said the men stopped the car and compelled her to drink some liquid out of a bottle. One of the men had a machine gun, she said, and he struck her over the head with it and threatened to kill her as he and his companions robbed her. She said she was forced to surrender five diamond rings, a diamond necklace, a wrist watch and $7.

Near Conway, she said the car collided with a truck and was wrecked. She said a passing motorist gave her a ride to Little Rock.

Little Rock police notified Conway officers who found the wrecked car, with two young men beside it. Both were said to be drunk. They were arrested and jailed at Conway.

The following day, Conway police reported that the men gave the names of J. W. Bodine, barber, 3008 West Twelfth street, and Ralph Lovell, 1920 Maple street, North Little Rock. Both denied the charges.

At Conway no effort was made to prosecute the pair on the kidnapping and robbery charges. The jewelry was recovered. However, in police court Bodine and Lovell were fined $10 and costs each on charges of being drunk. When it was found that they did not have that much money, the officers finally told them that they would be released if one of them paid the fine and costs assessed against him, and this was done. Resources of both were used to pay the single fine, it was said. The marriage license Monday gave Bodine's age as 32 and listed his address as Chicago.

New Light Shed on Snyder-Gray Case

Ruth Snyder Planned to Kill Lover After Disposing of Husband

NEW YORK.—New York police, without any thought of concealment, have been custodians of unrevealed evidence that the late Mrs. Ruth Snyder of Queens Village plotted to destroy her married, corset-salesman-husband as well as her husband for whose sashweight murder she and Henry Judd Gray went to the electric chair in Sing Sing prison's death house.

The evidence it was learned Monday, apparently forgotten in the welter of sensations following the murder of Albert Snyder, motor boat magazine editor, consists of a two-ounce Scotch whisky bottle, Gray had it in his pocket when he was arrested in Syracuse, N. Y. Detectives took it away from him, and sent it to Dr. Alexander O. Gettier, city toxicologist. Meanwhile Gray confessed and the murderous lovers were locked up in Queens county jail.

"By the way, what was that bottle we took away from you?" idly asked a detective.

"Just a shot," said the corset saleswoman. "When I kissed Ruth good-bye before I trussed her up to make it look as if burglars had come in and murdered Albert she gave it to me. She said, 'You had better take it with you, sweetheart. You might need a brace'."

A few days later Dr. Gettier sent in his report. The bottle contained a deadly mixture of bichloride of mercury, one swig of which would prove fatal.

By this time Mrs. Snyder and Gray had been indicted and each was accusing the other of having planned the crime. Detectives, knowing that they had clear-cut cases against both, were afraid that it might confuse the case if they introduced evidence that the woman also had planned to kill Gray. So they said nothing about the poisoned drink.

So far as is known, Gray never was told that his mistress had planned to kill him also.

In 1929, the crime exhibit was instituted in the Police Academy. Looking over the best material for the collection, Deputy Chief Inspector John J. O'Connell, head of the academy came across the vial and learned its history.

Eagle Falls and Lands Upon Mule

6-Foot Bird Grabbed by Tennessee Farm Boy's Trusty Dog

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Somewhat in the manner of airplanes that have fallen in recent winter storms, a large bald eagle fell out of the sky near here Monday.

Unfortunately for the big bird he made his forced landing on the back of a mule. Riding on the mule at the time was Dan Cook, 16, dairy farm employee, and following along was Dan's shepherd dog, Doss.

The eagle plunged with a whirl of wings, and "I thought it was at least an airplane," said Dan later.

The mule departed precipitately. Dan and the eagle stayed behind upon the ground. And Doss went into action.

A moment later the eagle lay dead, killed by the dog's sharp teeth. Measurements revealed a wing spread of more than six feet.

TRAIN TRAVEL COSTS LESS!

"I like to arrive at my destination looking fresh and feeling fresh. Of course I wouldn't be without my car at home; it's essential. But for long trips, I'll take the comfort and dependability of a train. Also—my husband isn't Croesus, and I appreciate the saving in dollars and cents that train travel affords!"
